

About

PocketIH Software is a one-person private endeavor with a single goal: developing useful handheld computer products for health and safety professionals. The emphasis is on tools effectively used by practicing field industrial hygienists (hence the "IH" in "PocketIH").

PocketIH Software firmly believes the most effective location for a health and safety professional is among the work force he or she serves — not behind a desk. While desktop and laptop computers are important tools, they are often not accessible or practical for true field use. Handheld computers are ideal for situations in which quick, convenient answers are needed. PocketIH Software's products are designed to meet this need.

Please pass along any thoughts you may have via our contact form. We can also be reached through our FAX number at (815)846-4884.